

MedicalBiostatistics.com

This figure hypothesizes that social factors are mother of all causes for all diseases. The only other causes may be genetic and ...

©indrayan

Note how social determinants are broad based that lead to risk factors. These risk factors give rise to specific diseases. Only a small proportion of cases with disease generally end up in death. The figure says that the root of all diseases are social factors in their widest sense.